According to the Secretariat of the National Iranian Nursing Research Network based in Tabriz the third meeting of the "Corona and Nursing Research" working group was held virtually on Monday, December 6th, 2021.

According to the Secretariat of the National Iranian Nursing Research Network based in Tabriz the third meeting of the "Corona and Nursing Research" working group was held virtually on Monday, December 6th, 2021.

At the beginning of the meeting, Dr. Valizadeh explained that on the suggestion of the members of the Corona Working Group in the Nursing Research Network, it had been decided that a project on determining the Corona Nursing Research Priorities would be carried out using the Delphi technique and a report would be submitted. After consultations, Dr. Mojgan Dehghani, a member of the faculty of Shahid Sadoughi University of Yazd, who was acted as a facilitator of a research project added that the proposal will be presented and judged by the Corona Working Group and the Educational Research Council of the Network and at the Midwifery Nursing Research Center of Yazd University of Medical Sciences.

Then in this meeting, a report on the aforementioned proposal was presented to the esteemed members of the working group.

Following the meeting, Dr. Dehghani, while thanking the working group for receiving the title of useful research project, presented the proposal and it was decided to determine and finalize Corona nursing research priorities in accordance with the crisis phases (esp. at this time of the pandemic and passing several waves and increasing the percentage of vaccination and reducing the number of delta patients) and also consider the diversity of research priorities in addressing issues and problems, causes of publication, solutions, actions / measures, and evaluation.
