

Introducing the Network

Medical Science Research Networks have been established by the approval of the Development Council by virtue of Article 46, section c, of the Fourth Development Law of the Islamic Republic of Iran government on modernizing management methods of research in medical sciences and all medical related sciences in accordance with a knowledge-based development in order to policy-making, solving important health problems, reducing the incidence of diseases or manufacturing of products or expanding the frontiers of medical science knowledge with the participation of all stakeholders.

National Nursing Research Network

A virtual collection of public and private research units and other research centers, educational centers, service centers, industrial centers approved by legal authorities, scientific associations, countries excellence centers, individuals and organizations and institutions using the results of research in various fields related to nursing, who have come together according to the alignment of their missions.